The very first team inbox that can be managed by anyone on your team from anywhere on any device.

How does Memaila help?

By giving each team member the convenience and flexibility to respond to customer support issues from their individual email address and from any devices, organizations of all shapes and sizes can be instantly empowered with a faster, and far more efficient, customer response rate.

And the best part is that this process is just as easy as responding to any other type of email.

Features:

- Respond to emails from any email address and any device
- Escalate an email
- Filter certain emails
- Responses are organized with Memaila's thread control
- Increase customer service efficiency
